Goal Mapping, Presentations and Brainstorming in Business

Today, let's talk about goal mapping, presentations and brainstorming in business.

Visualizing your dreams and ideas can help you stand out from others. It can help you get that promotion! Goal mapping, or business vision as it's also known, can be done in various ways. All involve using a white board.

One way is to use different coloured marker pens to visualize your ideas on the white board. This can include you creating bar charts, drawings, arrows, writing, mathematical equations, etc... Using this method shows off your individual creativity skills. It makes you look good!

What about a PowerPoint presentation? Sure you can go down this route, but the drawing you do on the board is live and actual. You are using your mind at that moment directly to apply your ideas onto the white board for others to see.

Presenting something you pre-prepared on PowerPoint is something entirely different. Using this method does though demonstrate your presentation computer skills! However, many bosses like to see drawings on white boards, as they can be more visually effective!

Many companies have brainstorming meetings. This is a team effort when team members all join in to come up with fresh ideas. Post-it stickers are plastered over the white board, sometimes in patterns, with new ideas on them. Brainstorming meetings can be held weekly or monthly.

At the end of the day in order to reach your goals in business and get that promotion you need to set yourself a target. Your mind is a powerful tool. It can secure you the success you deserve. Putting your ideas onto the board from what is in your mind could help earn you your next promotion. Good luck!

SPEAKING – WARM UP
