The 4 page 60 minute ESL British English lesson – 25/11/16

Meals children should be able to cook by the time they are 11

Today, let's talk about meals that children should be able to cook by the time they are 11. These include scrambled egg on toast, cheese on toast, sausage and mash, as well as porridge.

There are many other easy meals that kids can prepare. These include roast chicken, meatballs and a stew. By the age of 11 children should also be able to prepare desserts, such as fairy cakes, sponge cakes and apple crumble.

When faced with the challenge of preparing their own meal, most 11 year olds might just head for McDonald's. It could also be a 3 minute ready meal in the microwave or a take away.

Many kids today are fussy eaters. It is sad just how many kids end up eating frozen oven chips or pizza. This could be because of the lack of cooking classes in schools. Teaching kids how to cook, can result in less food been thrown away.

Home appliance manufacturer Samsung recently surveyed 2,000 British parents. They were asked to name the dishes they believed children should be able to cook by the time they are 11. The more complex options suggested included lasagne, chili con carne and cottage pie, as well as those listed in this article.

Easy cooking options included stir fry, pasta with sauce, and omelette. Other suggested choices were jacket potato with baked beans, dippy egg and soldiers, pizza from scratch and pancakes.

Many kids love learning how to cook. It gives them confidence. They learn by watching their parents. It also gives them a sense of pride in their achievements. Cooking is also fun!

TV baking Queen Mary Berry recently said that cookery skills for children should be a bigger priority both in schools and at home. How true!
