The 4 page 60 minute ESL British English lesson – 20/06/14

What would you do without the internet or mobile phone?

What would you do without the internet or mobile phone? Most people can't imagine life without either! Just think about how many times you log on to the internet. It is addictive!

Most people with mobiles check their emails and SMS messages all day long. They can't do without their device. They need to play with it all day long. It is a must-have addictive toy they simply can't do without! For others though it is a necessity for their work.

What do you use the internet for? The most likely answer is information. Many people communicate with family and friends using social networking apps. Many read the news and watch videos.

There are different ways to access the internet. You can use a computer e.g. your desktop, laptop or tablet. Many people access it on their mobile phones, which are often smartphones. Tablets are growing in popularity. Most people are connected to the internet so they don't miss anything important that might be happening.

What are the alternatives? In short many things offer people the opportunity to do something different. After all, we managed without either till recent times.

You could get away from it all, go for a walk in the country. Meet some friends and do some real social networking face to face. You could read a book, go for a bike ride, or go on holiday!

These days it is hard to imagine how businesses functioned before the internet, computer or mobile phone era, but you know what – they did!

In the future the mobile phone and internet might be replaced with something else. Now that's something for you to think about!

SPEAKING – WARM UP

Think of three things you do on the internet. What device do you use to do this e.g. mobile, tablet etc... Go round the room swapping details with others.

LISTENING – WRITING - DICTATION

The teacher will read some lines of the article slowly to the class.

READING

Students should now read the article aloud, swapping readers every paragraph.
