

Skiers stranded in Austria by too much snow!

Skiers in Western Austria recently got a bit too much snow for their liking. It was reported that more than 15,000 tourists were stuck in various ski resorts after too much of the white fluffy stuff fell last week. Dozens were reported to have been airlifted out of ski resorts by helicopters after roads became blocked by 5m of snow - though the cost was around £1,800 (€2,017) per person. On Saturday an Austrian army military helicopter was brought in to pick up 52 people who had been stranded at a mountain refuge in Vorarlberg. Skiers had been unable to make the descent from the Lindauer Huette refuge, which is 1,744m (5,720 ft) above sea level, by any other means because of the avalanche risk. The snow has caused chaos on the roads and railways. Villages and some tourist resorts have been cut off. The most heavily hit areas were Austria's western Tirol and Vorarlberg regions that received 1-2 meters of snow (3-7ft) of snow in just four days.

Authorities managed to get to some ski resorts, though driving was considered to be a dangerous option, as the threat of avalanches was classed as high. Those that decided to 'extend' their holidays took advantage of some of the best skiing conditions in 30 years - with more snow forecast. High winds across Austria sparked a warning from the Avalanche Warning Centre in Salzburg who urged revellers to take caution whilst skiing. Austria's national weather service ZAMG reported that such copious amounts of snow occurred once a decade and in some regions every 20-25 years. Many ski resorts already had a bumper amount of snow on the ground before the latest snowfall fell. Skiers were unable to ski in some resorts as ski lifts and ski runs were closed due to the unsafe skiing conditions. After the lack of snow in the Alps a few weeks ago winter is certainly making up for lost time!

Following the heavy snow a major east-west railway in Western Austria was also shut on Saturday in the popular Alpine skiing region. Railway operator OeBB said the line between Oetztal and Bludenz - part of the route that connects Vienna and Innsbruck with Austria's western tip and Switzerland - was expected to be shut for 24 hours. Two other rail lines connecting the Tyrol province with southern Germany were also closed due to overhead wires being hit by fallen trees.

1. Too much snow! Think of three places you know where there has been too much snow! Go round the room swapping details with others.

2. Dictation: The teacher will read four to six lines of the article slowly and clearly. Students will write down what they hear. The teacher will repeat the passage slowly again. Self-correct your work from page one - filling in spaces and correcting mistakes. Be honest with yourself on the number of errors. Advise the teacher of your total number of errors. Less than five is very good. Ten is acceptable. Any more is room for improvement! More than twenty - you need to do some work!

3. Reading: The students should now read the article aloud, swapping readers every paragraph.

4. Vocabulary: Students should now look through the article and underline any vocabulary they do not know. Look in dictionaries. Discuss and help each other out. The teacher will go through and explain any unknown words or phrases.

5. The article: Students should look through the article with the teacher.

- a) What is the article about?
- b) What do you think about the article?

6. Geography: Alps: Where are the Alps? What countries are they in? Draw a map on the board then look on Google maps to help you.

7. Skiing: In pairs think of five top skiing countries. Then add five top skiing resorts. Write them below. Discuss together. What makes them good?

| Top skiing countries | Top resorts |
